We, the Annual Staff, are proud to present to you, the 1964 Wescomb. We have tried to catch [illegible] glimpses, so that in years to come the activities and memories of West Edgecombe will not

Dedication

Mr. John Bengel, for your outstanding achievement, untiring patience, and ever-present sense of humor, we proudly dedicate the 1964 Wescomb to you. We are grateful for the understanding you have always displayed to each of us. Your contribution of individual friendship will always be remembered and appreciated as we attempt to meet the challenges that life has to offer.

Mr. John Bengel

The staff proudly dedicates this 1964 Wescomb to Mrs. Rachel Jacocks, whose understanding and devotion have been a guiding light to all of her students during the formative years of their education. Her constant efforts in leading young people have been greatly appreciated and will long be remembered.

Mrs. Rachel Jacocks

Administration

Mr. R. M. Cashwell
Principal

The senior class of 1964 is an unusual group of young people -- short in number but long in many qualities such as wit, sense of humor, and the desire to excell. This 1964 edition of the WESCOMB is one example of your desire to excell. To excell in life remember three things -- in whatever field you pursue, don't ever give up, do a little more than is expected, and always remember that the MAN upstairs is only too willing to help when you give Him the opportunity to do so.
